Gunnery Sergeant Salvadore Carbajal, Class of 2008

Salvadore joined the U.S. Marines upon graduation and was eventually promoted to Gunnery Sergeant. He has been deployed four times, living in numerous places throughout the world. Carbajal recently relocated to Camp Pendleton, California where he serves as the Communications Chief for Force Reconnaissance Company.

Brad Corson, Class of 1979

Brad has been a high-ranking executive at ExxonMobil among other ventures in the oil and gas industry all over the world for several decades after graduating from Auburn University in 1983. The former Eagle Scout has been a volunteer and board member dedicating considerable time to various non-profits, including the Boy Scouts of America.

Nancy (Swartout) Lawson, Class of 1974

Nancy toured Europe with a dance troupe upon graduation and became a teacher in Lake Geneva following her graduation from Illinois State University. She later established childcare programs for the U.S. Army and won an Army Excellence Award for her efforts. Lawson also devoted volunteer time to school supply and food drives, as well as volunteering at a local animal shelter.
